Hey Guys,

Please see attachment for the Purity on some of the randomly selected Heroin OD samples.

A couple of the samples were a higher purity given that they were such a small amount.

The only reason for the overdose was probably that the defendants were so use to getting the crappy stuff, that when they got a better supply their body could not handle it.

The samples also contained cutting agents and other sugars. No fentanyl or ketamine was present.
Nothing really unusual.

Let me know if you need anything else. My cell # [REDACTED] (call or text).

Have a nice weekend.
